===== The prostate is an organ located in the urogenital system of males, in which fluid (urine) passes through. Prostate cancer is one of the most common cancer among men in Europe; it is responsible for nearly a third of all male cancer deaths (about one in every eight cancer deaths) around the world.[1,2] In the United States (U.S.), the most common cancer in men is prostate cancer.[3] The lifetime risk of a man developing prostate cancer is about 13.2%.[4] A large prospective cohort study in UK reported that 13.0% of men had suffered a diagnosis of prostate cancer and 4.5% had died from the disease.[5] Age is a risk factor for developing prostate cancer. Nearly 50% of men with prostate cancer are older than 65 years. It is more frequent in men over 75 years.[6] Men with African American ancestry are 2.5 times more likely to develop the disease.[7] What are the symptoms of prostate cancer? The prostate produces fluid that keeps the semen. If the prostate gets cancer, the fluid is not able to be released properly, leading to symptoms such as weakness in the legs, difficulty in urinating, difficulty in carrying out erection (these symptoms are called BPH/Benign Prostate Hypertrophy), or even cancer.[8] How is prostate cancer diagnosed? Prostate cancer is detected by a physical exam and blood tests. Digital rectal exam is an uncomfortable procedure and often men have pain and bleeding at this procedure. Digital rectal exam is not efficient for detecting early cancer; even in the early stages the tumor is not visible. The best method to detect prostate cancer is a digital rectal exam (DRE). DRE is a test where an examine of the prostate gland is done by inserting fingers into the rectum and moving the fingers back and forth to feel the prostate. It is uncomfortable and sometimes pain
